

Mr. Nick Hennessey

“The Sleeping King and the Body of the World”

講演内容

The language of story in the oldest language of all because it is the language of dreams, and it is because of this that the story is to us all precious and intimate. But how does the story engage us so deeply, and how does it communicate so directly? How is the story speaking to us, and who is it that is hearing it? Storytelling is a gateway leading directly into the world, and into ourselves.

講師プロフィール

Nick Hennessey came to storytelling whilst undertaking field research for a PhD in Cultural Geography. At this time he became a professional singer, songwriter and storyteller with a particular interest in the relationship between landscape, communities and stories and the re-invention of tradition.
